

Withdrawing and Financial Aid

When a financial aid recipient withdraws from a term, federal regulations require a calculation to determine whether federal student loan funding must be returned. This calculation, called a Return of Title IV Aid (R2T4) calculation, is required for official withdrawals but also in the case of students who unofficially withdraw by ceasing attendance in all their classes.

For the purposes of this discussion, students taking a leave of absence are treated in an identical manner to those students who withdraw in good standing, who are administratively withdrawn, who are dismissed, or who unofficially withdraw from Adler University. The terms “leave of absence” and “withdrawal” are interchangeable throughout this policy.

Some coursework at Adler University is considered to be modular in nature. Modules exist when courses do not span the entire academic term. In the case of modular coursework, a student is considered to have withdrawn for Title IV aid purposes if the student ceases attendance at any point prior to completing the payment period or period of enrollment, unless Adler University receives written confirmation from the student at the time of withdrawal indicating that they will resume attendance in a later module. The expected return module indicated on the University’s Leave of Absence paperwork is filled out at the time of withdrawal and is considered confirmation of future attendance. If the student provides written confirmation that they will resume attendance and the student fails to return at that future date, the student is considered to have withdrawn for Title IV aid purposes as of the original date of withdrawal.

Withdrawing might impact future eligibility for federal and institutional financial aid. Please review the Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) requirements on the Financial Aid Office’s website.

Withdrawing from the University

Students wishing to withdraw in good standing from Adler University must follow the published policy of the Registrar’s Office. The Registrar’s Office is the designated office that a student must notify if s/he wishes to withdraw from the University.

Tuition Refund Policy

The tuition refund policy can be found in the Adler University Course Catalog. Please note that students may be found liable for tuition and fee amounts charged for the term in which they are withdrawing, and may have limited eligibility for financial assistance to pay for those charges. The University’s tuition refund policy has no bearing on the federally-required R2T4 calculation.

Earned versus Unearned Title IV Aid

Title IV funds are awarded to students under the assumption they will attend school for the entire period for which the aid is awarded. Upon withdrawing from Adler University, a student may no longer be eligible for the entire amount of Title IV aid they were awarded and/or received. For the purpose of this policy, the withdrawal date is based on the last date of academic activity, as reported by the Registrar [34 C.F.R. §668.22(b) and (c)]. Federal aid is earned for each day that progresses in the term prior to the withdrawal, so the Office of Financial Aid is required to calculate how much of the Title IV assistance the student earned using the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{Enrolled Days in Term}}{\text{Total Days in Term}} = \% \text{ of Title IV Aid Earned}$$

Federal Title IV aid includes the Direct Unsubsidized Stafford loan and the Direct Graduate PLUS loan. Unearned Title IV aid is returned in the following order:

1. Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loans
2. Federal Graduate PLUS Loans

If the student withdraws after 60% of the term has passed, they are considered to have earned all of their Title IV aid for that period.

Repayment of Unearned Title IV Aid

If the amount of aid disbursed to the student is greater than the amount s/he is eligible to receive, this overage must be returned to the federal programs.

The student and/or Adler University may be responsible for returning the assistance. Adler University's share is the lesser of:

- the total amount of unearned aid or
- the institutional charges for the term multiplied by the percentage of unearned aid.

Adler's share is returned by removing the aid from the student's tuition account. If a balance is subsequently created on the student's tuition account, the student will be billed and is responsible for these charges. Students may also be required to return amounts that were given to them to use for living expenses for the term.

Credit balances on students' accounts resulting from an R2T4 calculation will be disbursed to the student as soon as possible and no later than 14 days after the R2T4 calculation [34 C.F.R. §668.164(h)].

Funds are returned, where necessary, and students are notified via an email to their Adler email account no later than 30 days from the determination of withdrawal. The notification will provide detailed information about Adler's share of funds that was returned.

In general, the student is responsible for returning any amounts of unearned aid in excess of the amount calculated above. Any loan amounts that must be returned must be repaid in accordance with the terms of that loan's promissory note (i.e. the student will make scheduled payments to the holder of the loan over a period of time).

Post-Withdrawal Disbursement

If the amount of Title IV aid disbursed is less than the amount the student is eligible to receive, the student may receive a post-withdrawal disbursement to his or her tuition account at Adler University. If this post-withdrawal disbursement contains loan funds, the Financial Aid Office will alert the student of the availability of those loan funds via an email to their Adler email account no later than 30 days from the determination of withdrawal. This email will request confirmation from the student as to whether they approve disbursement of the funds as funds will not be disbursed without student approval.

The student must also authorize Adler to use the post-withdrawal disbursement to cover all other charges other than tuition and fees on their account. If the student does not authorize the school to use these funds to cover other charges, the funds will be refunded to the student after covering outstanding tuition and fee charges and s/he will be responsible for any balance due.

There are some Title IV funds that the student may have been scheduled to receive that cannot be disbursed once the student has withdrawn because of other eligibility requirements. For example, a Stafford loan disbursement cannot be made if the student has not signed the appropriate promissory note for that program.

Failure to Earn a Passing Grade in all Courses

Any student who begins classes at Adler, applies for financial aid, completes all of the requirements to obtain that aid, and then fails to receive at least one passing grade for the term may be treated as unofficially withdrawing from the University. For students in this situation, attendance records and academically-related activity for the student will be reviewed with the course instructors to determine if a failing grade was earned. For those without earned F grades, the withdrawal date will be based on (1) the last date of academic activity, as reported by the instructor, or (2) the midpoint for those whom the instructor does not report, or cannot determine, a last date of academic activity [34 C.F.R. §668.22(b) and (c)].

Grades of “F” and “I” are considered to be non-passing grades for the purposes of this policy.

Institutional Aid and Private Loan Regulations Regarding Withdrawals

All institutional scholarships awarded as a flat amount for the withdrawal term will be reduced if they exceed the student's tuition charges for that term. All institutional scholarships awarded as a percentage of tuition for the withdrawal term will be prorated to the applicable percentage of the student's final tuition charge.

Students who have been awarded state grant funding should contact the Office of Financial Aid at 844.459.3710 to review the impact of a withdrawal on that funding.

If the student has taken out a private loan for the withdrawal term and the student has a credit on his or her account after all other aid has been returned according to the regulations listed above, Adler University will return private loan funds to the student's lender. The amount returned will be the lesser of the credit amount on the student's tuition account or the total amount of the private loan for the term. Any remaining credit will be sent to the student in the form of a check from Student Accounts.
